Dulles Says Nixon Errs About Cuba

Washington, March 21 (AP) — Allen W. Dulles, former director of the Central Intelligence Agency, says Richard Nixon was in error when he charged that President Kennedy had been briefed during the 1960 campaign on Cuban invasion preparations.

Dulles said, however, he believed the charge—contained in Nixon's new book, "Six Crisis"—was the result of "an honest misunderstanding."

Nixon contended President Kennedy had been told the CIA was helping to train Cuban rebels for an invasion and had jeopardized the plan in campaign oratory.
